ECOA Members-Only Webcast "Global Ethics & Integrity Benchmarks Report"

Wednesday, July 29
2:00 - 3:00 p.m. ET

This webcast will introduce participants to the recently released Global Ethics & Integrity Benchmarks tool, a self-assessment protocol for global organizations. The tool is intended to be used by organizations who want to improve and expand their commitment to ethics & integrity in a fashion that is not directly tied to any one country's legal framework.

Joan Dubinsky of BAE Systems and Alan Richter of QED Consulting are the co-authors of the Global Ethics & Integrity Benchmarks. Relying upon the advice and experience of a global panel of experts, they have prepared these benchmarks to help colleagues answer their probing questions of necessity, effectiveness, and legitimacy. The Global Ethics & Integrity Benchmarks presents twelve categories or dimensions of activity that typically fall under the heading of ethics and integrity.

Joan Elise Dubinsky, Esquire
Director of Ethics
BAE Systems, Inc.

As of June 2009, Ms. Dubinsky serves as Director of Ethics for BAE Systems, Inc., based in Rockville, Maryland. Her mission includes integrating the ethics functions of the U.S. and U.K. organizations, consistent with the recommendations of the Woolf Commission and BAE's business strategy.

From 2004 through 2009, Ms. Dubinsky served as the Chief Ethics Officer for the International Monetary Fund, where she had institution-wide accountability for advising, guiding, communicating, and enforcing the Fund's values and standards. Reporting to the Managing Director, Ms. Dubinsky provided independent ethics advice and counsel to all levels of the Fund and conducted sensitive internal investigations.
